

June 3-14 in Ketchikan, Alaska

Ketchikan Gateway
Borough School District

SEALASKA
HERITAGE

working in collaboration to present

amplifying stories through the arts

In this two-week summer intensive, participants will be immersed in integrating the art of storytelling into curriculum and instruction, with drama, music, movement/dance, traditional cultural arts, and media arts. 4 graduate credits are available.

- Learn to integrate standards-based art & culture with your classroom curriculum & lessons
- Work with and learn from Alaska Native artists & elders
- Understand the impact of the arts on student performance, motivation, & brain activity
- Experience the production, criticism, & appreciation of a variety of art forms
- Grow your personal knowledge & understanding of the value of the arts

Lead Teachers at the Ketchikan Institute:
Edward Littlefield: Tlingit Culture, Music, Movement
Debbie Piper: Visual Arts, Educational Theory
Gabrielle Vance: Media Arts & Digital Storytelling
SERRC Presenters on Multicultural Education
And many other storytellers from around Ketchikan

*$495/participant

More information & registration at www.akartsed.org or contact barbshort@gmail.com

*SCHOLARSHIPS for the full $495 registration fee are available from Sealaska Heritage for the first 20 educators signing up from Ketchikan, Juneau, & Yakutat. Note that the scholarship registration requires a $100 deposit that will be refunded while at the institute.